FROM THE MANAGER

Board Will Meet to Discuss Two Rate Changes

Bruce Mueller

As I discussed in last month's article, the Wheatland Electric Cooperative Inc., Board of Trustees is considering two changes to its rates. The Board will discuss and vote on these changes at its September 2016 meeting. Neither of the changes will affect existing members unless they choose to participate. One is an optional General Service High Load Factor Rate Rider where qualifying members who receive electricity and are billed under the General Service tariff may receive reductions in their monthly billing. The other is the Grid Access Charge, which will affect new distributed generation members.

Optional General Service High Load Factor Rate Rider:

When Wheatland Electric Cooperative implemented its rate increase for the entire membership in April 2016, we announced plans for a new optional General Service High Load Factor Rate Rider for members on the General Service tariff who have extremely high energy usage. Members in this particular sub-set of the General Service tariff received a somewhat higher percentage increase under the new rates as compared to the average rate increase.

The Wheatland Board will discuss and vote on a new Optional High Load Factor Rider for members who receive electricity and are billed under the General Service tariff. The rider will provide a monthly billing credit for members with high load factors. This rider will only be applicable to Wheatland's standard General Service tariff, and not to its General Service Time of Use or Large General Service tariffs, or any other tariff.

The rider is beneficial to both members who receive electricity and are billed under the General Service tariff and potentially to Wheatland members as a whole. The individual member can see a reduction in monthly billing, but only if they maintain a high load factor.

Wheatland's other members benefit as well because high load factors generally result in a lower average cost of power, which flows through to all Wheatland members through a lower monthly Energy Cost Adjustment.

No member will pay more under the rider than under the General Service tariff, and each member may decide for him or herself if he or she wishes to participate. Wheatland may temporarily see a small reduction in margins but does not anticipate this

Wheatland Sponsors Youth

Each year, Wheatland sponsors three area students on trips of a lifetime. This year, winners were BRE AKIU, Conway Springs; ERIN HALL, Norwich; and MARCOS MARTINEZ, Great Bend. Winners were selected by Wheatland Electric through an application and interview process based on academic achievements positive attitude and involvement within their community.

Electric Cooperative Youth Tour

Hall and Martinez were selected by Wheatland Electric to attend the 56th Annual Electric Cooperative Youth Tour to Washington, D.C., from June 9-16. They joined more than 1,700 other high school students nationwide to visit with their state's senators and members of Congress, tour historic monuments and memorials.

This year's delegation of 36 Kansas youth and four Hawaii youth began their trip with a banquet in Topeka featuring youth tour alumni Mike O'Neal, Former Speaker of the Kansas House of Representatives; Brant Laue, Chief Counsel for Gov. Sam Brownback; Rep. Steven Johnson; and Rep. Kyle Hoffman; and a night tour of the Kansas State Capitol. Before flying to Washington, D.C., on Friday, the delegation had breakfast at Kaw Valley Electric Cooperative where linemen presented an electrical safety demonstration and gave bucket truck rides.

While in Washington, D.C., the students met with Congressman Tim Huelskamp and Congresswoman Lynn Jenkins. They also visited with Sens. Pat Roberts and Jerry Moran after their tour of Capitol Hill.

"Electric Cooperatives are more than just poles and wires. They're about people and communities," Moran said. "Recognizing that youth are the future of those communities is what the rural electric cooperative program is all about."

This trip opens the eyes of many students to future possibilities in leadership roles, while building lifelong friendships.

"Lunch at Ben's Chilli Bowl was my favorite memory. The food and the conversations with my new friends on this trip was an amazing experience," Hall said. "The real prize, however, was hearing the stories of Ben's experiences during the 60s. This family-owned restaurant survived through many years of depression throughout the Civil Rights Movement and the staff shared first-hand stories with us."

"I was inspired by the World War II veteran, Frank Matthews, who told of his experiences in the Marines and at Iwo Jima.” Martinez said. “Realizing the sacrifices people made for our country encourages me to want to do more.”

The delegates also toured the Holocaust Memorial Museum, Smithsonian Museums, Mount Vernon, Arlington National Cemetery, attended a professional baseball game at the Nationals Park, and had a laugh at the production of Shear Madness at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts. The delegates also attended the NRECA Youth Day that brought together students from 43 states.

A surprise turn of events also occurred on this year’s trip. Delegates had the opportunity to see the 14th Dalai Lama of Tibet while visiting the Capitol, watch from a distance as presidential candidate Donald Trump boarded his plane at Ronald Reagan Washington National Airport and witnessed a vote in the Senate Gallery with several well-known senators who have also been a part of the current presidential campaign.

Cooperative Youth Leadership Camp

Akiu was selected to attend the 40th annual Cooperative Youth Leadership Camp (CYLC) in Steamboat Springs, Colo. From July 16-22, Akiu joined approximately 100 youth from Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and Oklahoma for the week-long camp that combines education about the cooperative business model with traditional camp pastimes.

At CYLC, the campers participated in daily membership meetings where they established committees and elected a general manager and board of directors. Campers also had time to enjoy area activities including visits to Fish Creek Falls and Steamboat Springs, river rafting and participating in camp activities such as volleyball, swimming and a talent show.

The youth learned about the workings of electric cooperatives through a variety of activities: Yampa Valley Electric’s linemen led a high voltage safety demonstration, campers competed in building a model transmission line out of craft supplies, and they toured the Trapper Mine and Craig Power Plant.

“I found the Craig Power Plant tour very interesting,” Akiu said. “I will always remember my small group. We all really got along great and worked together to get the most out of our camp experience.”

Overall, the campers said they left CYLC with a new sense of leadership and a basic understanding of how their local electric cooperatives operate and how they contribute to the betterment of the communities they serve.

Wheatland Electric sponsors two delegates for the Electric Cooperative Youth Tour and one camper for the CYLC each year as part of our strong commitment to the community and our mission to inspire future generations to become leaders. Applicants must be high school juniors whose parents or guardians are Wheatland members. Applications are due Feb. 1. For more information, school counselors can contact Shawn Powelson, manager of member services and corporate communications, at 620-872-5885.

WHAT IS SOMETHING NOT MANY PEOPLE KNOW ABOUT YOU?

(This is hard. I'm not really a quiet person, so most people already know a lot about me.) In college, I decided I wasn't ready to settle into the career life, so went to Washington D.C. to be a nanny for the director of the FBI, then Louis Freeh, among other high profile D.C. professionals. I then earned my paralegal certification and came back to Kansas where I was a police officer for 15 years. I still get to play cop part-time at the Garden City Community College.

Brownback Visits Water Technology Farm

Governor Brownback recently visited Western Kansas as part of a field day showcasing the first water technology farm. More than 200 attendees gathered at T&O Farms, LLC to observe technologies the farm has implemented that focus on irrigating effectively in an attempt to help conserve the aquifer. In addition, attendees heard from a number of other agriculture and water experts on the subjects of water conservation and crop production as a part of the field day.

The water technology farm concept was developed as a part of Gov. Brownback's call to address the state's water supply issues in 2013.

In conjunction with the governor's visit to the area, Wheatland hosted a meeting with Governor Brownback and his staff to continue the water conservation discussion. Also in attendance were two tenants currently farming Wheatland-owned land. The governor and his staff facili-

Help Wheatland Electric Cram the Van this Fall!

And we're off! September is here and it's officially time to Cram the Van! The big red van will make its first stop in Leoti on Sept. 13 on the Wichita County Courthouse lawn. We'll be serving hamburgers and hot dogs hot off the grill, in exchange for your donation to the local food bank. You'll also have a chance to enter to win a free night stay at the Hotel at Waterwalk in Wichita. Thanks to our generous friends at the Waterwalk, we'll once again be offering a number of free night stays and weekend packages at select events this year. Listen and watch for local ads identifying registration locations throughout this year's drive.

You don't have to wait for the big red van to show up in your town to make a donation. In addition to the 11 events we'll be conducting across our service territory, we'll also have donation bins located at every Wheatland Electric office, Hired Man Grocery and Grill in Conway Springs, Caldwell amount to cause cost shifting among rate classes or failure to meet its financial goals and objectives.

Grid Access Charge

The Grid Access Charge will add a monthly charge to allow Wheatland to recover from distributed generation members the cost of providing them electric service each month. All existing net metering and renewable members will be grandfathered under their existing tariffs.

Currently, Wheatland recovers a portion of its fixed costs for providing service (tree trimming, line maintenance, meter costs, debt payments, etc.) from the monthly service availability charge. But, when members move to a net metering rate, that cost recovery is reduced, because the member averts kilowatt-hour (kWh) consumption. Wheatland firmly supports providing each net metering member with a benefit related to reduced power costs that are based on reductions in Wheatland's cost of power. However, Wheatland's fixed costs of providing service unrelated to generation or power must be shared by all members equally.

Since all current members will continue to be billed under their existing tariff, this proposed change will have no effect on Wheatland's revenue.

C.H. Guernsey, our rate consultant, has assisted Wheatland with both new rate changes.

The Wheatland Board of Trustees and management are sensitive to and recognize that any change to rates is very important to the members. By now, you should have received a notification in the mail about a meeting in which the Board of Trustees will be discussing and voting on these rate proposals. The meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 27, 2016, at 9 a.m. at the following location: Wheatland Broadband office (Bryan Conference Center), 416 S Main, Scott City, KS 67871. The portion of the meeting where rates are discussed is open to all members who wish to attend.

Until next time, take care.

Local Fairs Bring Members and Communities Together

Summer means fair season in Kansas. From arts and crafts to animals and carnival rides—there is usually something for everyone. These fairs, which occur throughout Wheatland Electric's service territory, provide plenty of opportunities for Wheatland employees to volunteer.

Fair week in Scott County has several events that keep Wheatland employees busy. From Beefiesta—a free barbecue dinner held during the fair—to the Beef Tasting Booths, where local businesses compete to win the People's Choice Award for best beef recipe—there are a lot of opportunities to get involved.

Wichita and Greeley counties are unique in that the Fair Associations own their own carnival rides. Residents, including a number of Wheatland employees, volunteer their time to be “carnies”—running rides and games and selling tickets. They also help assemble the rides and tear them down after the fair is over. Leoti's fair, in particular, is a big draw in the area because of the rock bottom ticket prices—it is only 25 cents a ride!

In Harper, Wheatland linemen recently lent a helping hand by hanging a Harper County Fair banner over the road reminding residents of the fair dates for their community.

From driving bucket trucks in fair parades to sponsoring rodeos, demo derbies and community dinners and everything in between, Wheatland and its employees are proud to support and be a part of the communities we serve.

A DAY in the LIFE

BY SHAWN POWELSON

Amy Jones
Administrative Assistant
10 years in Scott City

Once I convinced Amy to let me shadow her for the day (albeit reluctantly), I knew we'd be in for an action-packed day. We office in the same building, so I get to see Amy in action on a regular basis. And let me tell you, it is action.

I didn't have to wait long for the action to start. I'd no sooner sat down with Amy and started to ask her a few basic questions about her work at Wheatland when we were interrupted by a phone call. With any given call, Amy could be scheduling a new installation, coordinating with the field personnel, answering a billing question, communicating with another Wheatland office and everything in between.

Fairly regularly, I will approach Amy's desk with a question and begin the conversation only to realize that she's on the phone. A slight motion toward the headset and a courteous smile lets me know I'll have to wait my turn.

As Amy was on the phone, the tower crew walked up to her desk. To help them avoid the hand motion and smile, I volunteered, "She's on the phone." They relayed to me their request for her to order something or another for them and they were on their way.

As she hung up the phone, we discussed the current project she was working on. She had been coordinating a billing change between our customer information software vendor, the billing department and her boss. All the while she simultaneously answered an email, verified the information on a ticket, checked a spreadsheet, baked some cookies and planned a wedding. Ok, so I exaggerated a little, but you get the point!

Her world is in constant motion, best described as organized chaos in my opinion. My head was spinning after an hour and I got the impression she was just getting warmed up as she smiled at me, motioned toward her cup and explained "Need more coffee".

As we continued our discussion, Amy told me that everything that happens at the Broadband office happens in the form of a ticket. Whether it's a new installation, a service call, tower work, technical support or anything else that happens, it happens with a ticket. And every single ticket that gets created makes its way back to Amy for final review and input. That, in and of itself would be a full-time job for most people. But that's only one part of her job. Amy's other official responsibilities include, broadband billing, taking customer support calls, scheduling new installations, taking and processing payments, ordering all of the office supplies AND other. Before my department expanded, I used to be guilty of asking her to help me with lots of projects that could be classified as "other." Sorry, Amy...I had no idea!

I asked Amy what she enjoyed most about her job. "5 o'clock," she quipped. "That's when the phone stops ringing and I can really get some work done." That pretty much sums up Amy, usually one of the first to arrive and last to leave, dedicated to the job. Thanks for sharing your day with me Amy and thanks for all your hard work. I don't know how you do it!

SHAWN POWELSON, Manager of Member Services and Corporate Communications
